

BigAssRobot is:

T.C. Johnston - Vocals, Keyboards, harmonica on "Antichrist," melodica on "Love Is"

Bruce E. Birch - Drums, Vocals, Guitar on "Love Is"

Special Guest Robots:

Wes Johnston - Bass on "Café Mugumbo," "Kung Fu Robot Ellipses," "What More Now?," "Alien Firetruck," "Finger Lickin' Good," "Penis Euphemism Song," "Everything About You." Essential vocals on "Penis Euphemism Song," "Everything About You." That's a bunch, huh? Wes was a founding member of "Glitch" ... BigAssRobot's parent band. He quit because he's a serious and dedicated musician ... and we no longer have that spark. Don't worry. After his dreams and aspirations have been dashed to little bits against the cruel and brutal rock-like protrusions of reality ... he'll be back. PlayStation!

Linus - realistic dog-barking-at-harmonica sounds in "Tale of a Reluctant Antichrist"

Mrs. Imelda Feingold - Catering, Pet Wrangler, Yoko sounds in "What More Now?"

"One and Five Eighths Seconds of Silence" was written and produced by Skeeky Webo, Jr. and Cruzman Szimonisz of SeeJinHell.com. Performers were: Bruce E. Birch - acoustic guitar, oboe, didgeridoo, Black & Decker rechargeable drill; T.C. Johnston - dulcimer, metal-punching press brake, anodized aluminum bell-shaped refrigerator magnet; Yo Yo Ma - Jell-O; The Disembodied Head of Oliver Cromwell - wind machine and Yoda mask; Bob Balaban - pan flute, prop accordion; Paul Shaffer - harpsichord.

Cover and liner notes blame: T.C. Johnston

All songs written and performed in lovely San Diego, California by BigAssRobot. Copyright 2003 and stuff. Underwritten by BigAssRobot Co. Produced by BigAssRobot Prod. Co. Recorded at BigAssRobot Rec HQ Co. (with indispensable help from Bruce E. Birch's Disposable Income & Savvy Computer Recording Equipment Co., [bebdiscrc.com]). Published by BigAssRobot Pub. Co. Distributed by BigAssRobot Distr. Co. All rights reserved, BigAssRobot Prod. Rec. HQ Pub. Distr. Co. Holding Co. See our website at www.123myBigAssRobotProdRecHQDistrPubCoHoldingCoOnlineNow.com

Better yet, try BigAssRobot.com E-Mail: info@bigassrobot.com

